Masonic Lodge To Raise 100th Member

Thursday, April 16th, will be a real event in the history of Point Loma Masonic lodge, when they will raise their 100th member since this lodge was instituted.

A highly interesting program has been arranged with high Masonic officials taking part in the program and a 3rd degree being given the 100th member.

All Masons in good standing are cordially invited to come and take part in this celebration.

In the early days of Ocean Beach there were many Masons residing here who were members in good standing of other jurisdictions thruout the U. S. For their own mutual benefit they banded together and formed a club called Peninsula Masonic club. They and their wives enjoyed many pleasant affairs together. As this section grew and more Masons located here, a lodge was formed and a dispensation applied for. The grand master, David Reese, of California, granted the dispensation and on August 4, 1925, Peninsula Masonic lodge No. 620 was instituted with 22 charter Masons. Officers were elected and the lodge functioned until the grand lodge met in the fall when a charter was granted on October 25, 1925. The first member was raised in the new lodge January 16, 1926. In October, 1930, by permission of the grand lodge the name was changed to Point Loma lodge No. 620. The members of the lodge which had in these few years steadily grown believed that owing to the fact that the lodge and membership were located on Point Loma this name was more fitting.

During the eleven years of its existence the lodge has gained new members each year until now it is nearing the century mark. Since the lodge was instituted Masons holding membership in all parts of the world have visited Point Loma lodge and many of its members are in foreign possessions. Point Loma lodge is proud of the type of men who have petitioned for degrees and the local lodge is well and favorably known thruout the country.

Garden Club Flower Show Set For May

The fourth annual flower show of the Ocean Beach Garden Club will be held May 9 and 10 in the recreation building, Santa Monica and Abbott streets, with a number of special features as well as enlarged general exhibits.

The next meeting of the club the last to be held before the flower show will be April 14, at 8 p. m. in the American Legion hall on Abbott st. All those interested are welcome, and representatives of beach organizations are especially invited to attend this meeting.

The Ocean Beach Garden Club was erroneously called "Point Loma Floral association" in the last announcement.

Beach Residents To Mount Soledad Sunday

Ocean Beach is expected to be well represented at the non-denominational Easter sunrise services on Mt. Soledad.

Mrs. Harriet Dumont and Dr. Harry Bailey, Ocean Beach residents who are members of the permanent North Shore Mt. Soledad Easter Sunrise committee, said every indication point to the largest throng that has yet worshipped at sunrise at the cross.

Beach residents are reminded that the trumpet call heralding the break of dawn and start of the service will sound at 5:23 a. m., and are advised of the most direct route, which is via Lamont street, Pacific Beach. Flares will mark the road from Pacific Beach.

A concert of sacred numbers by the WPA band will precede the service. The Easter message will be delivered by Dr. Roy Campbell, of the First Congregational church, San Diego, one of the foremost clergymen in Southern California.

NEW BROADCAST SERIES SALUTES CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN DIEGO

A new broadcast series, entitled "California's Hour" and starting over KGB and the Columbia-Don Lee Network Monday night, April 13, has selected San Diego as the "honor county" for the broadcast of Monday night, April 20. The program will tell Pacific Coast audiences the romantic story of San Diego County's history and growth in the second of twenty-six weekly salutes to the leading cities and counties of the state.

Combining the three most popular program ideas now on the air, "California's Hours" will feature the week's best-selling dance hits as interpreted by Dave Broekman's orchestra, famous movie stars introduced by Conrad Nagel, and outstanding San Diego County radio performers to be selected next week in an extensive talent quest, to enter which all citizens of this county will be eligible.

Conrad Nagel, famed motion picture, stage and radio star, will act as master of ceremonies, and will be supported thruout the series by Jane Froman, one of radio's most widely beloved featured singers.

Radio professionals and ambitious amateurs will be auditioned at the San Diego Exposition Saturday, Easter Sunday and Tuesday from noon to 4 p. m. The best performers will be publicly auditioned Wednesday afternoon at the Exposition by a committee of representative San Diego citizens, with the aid of an electric applause meter. The six winners of this open contest will receive $40 each in cash prizes, and a free trip to Los Angeles to appear on San Diego's Night the following Monday, also a chance for a later grand prize and possible radio fame.

The public audition for "California's Hour" finalists will be broadcast from the Exposition grounds in a special program over KGB Thursday afternoon, April 16, from 2 to 2:45 p. m.

NEW HARDWARE MERCHANT JOINS OCEAN BEACH KIWANIS

E. E. Follin, who recently purchased the Ocean Beach Hardware stock and fixtures, was on Wednesday accepted into membership of the local Kiwanis club, with I. J. Claspill, another merchant, making the acceptance for the club.

Ocean Beach Kiwanis has made good strides during the past four months and hopes to have double the membership on July 1st in which it started out 1936.

Allan V. Mutty was chairman of the day's program with his speaker Lara P. Good of San Diego. Mr. Good gave a comprehensive talk on the Townsend plan, giving his reasons why he believed it impractical, after having made a thorough study of the number of people over the age of 60 as well as a study of the economic output of the country and the annual income going to federal sources. Mr. Good is in the insurance business and conversant with many phases that were of interest to his audience.

Norman Maw of the San Diego club was a welcome visitor this week.

Life Guards at Beaches Needed All The Year

City officials acted wisely this week when they placed life guards on the beach for the Easter week holiday as was demonstrated when the life guards saved the lives of four children who went out beyond the breakers in a row boat off Ocean Beach Wednesday afternoon. The waves were high enough so that the youngsters were in trouble and the guards on duty had to go out and bring them in to the shore.

Playground director Wm. A. Kearns happened to be here at the time of the rescue, we are told, and we hope was able to see how necessary it is for the beaches to have proper and adequate life guards at all times, even though he has been of the opinion that folks should not go in bathing during the early spring months.

The North Shore beaches need a dozen life guards from La Jolla to Ocean Beach and they also need a radio in their emergency auto so that minutes can be saved when bathers are in distress and need to be rescued.

INJURED OFFICER'S LEG AMPUTATED

Herbert T. Webster, 1919 Cable St., retired police office who was shot in the head May 10, 1924, Saturday lost his left leg as a result of injuries received at that time. Following amputaton, his condition was critical, with an even chance for recovery.

Webster was shot from ambush at an isolated spot on Point Loma and his assailant never was apprehended. The bullet entered his brain and a year later an operation saved his life. The wound, however, affected a nerve in Webster's left leg and removal of the member became necessary, it is said.

STATE INCOME TAX RETURNS DUE SHORTLY

Taxpayers were reminded today by Chas. J. McColgan, Franchise Tax Commissioner, that State income tax returns must be filed on or before April 15, and that, accordingly, only a few days remain in which to file returns. Under the State Income Tax Act passed by the Legislature in 1935, every single person whose net income for the year 1935 amounted to $1,000 or over, and every married person whose net income amounted to $2,500 or over, must file a return. Furthermore, every person whose gross income for 1935 amounted to $5,000 or over must file a return, regardless of the amount of net income. Returns must be filed by every person whose income for 1935 equalled or exceeded the above amounts, even though no tax is due.

Welfare Recipients To Have Musical Treat

A rare musical treat is being arranged for the old people of San Diego county. Through the efforts of Edgar F. Hastings chairman of the board of supervisors, the Federal Opera company, in collaboration with the Federal Philharmonic orchestra under the direction of Julius Leib, has generously consented to repeat their very fine performance of the opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," on Sunday afternoon, April 19th, for the enjoyment of all those 65 years of age and over, who are enrolled in the County Welfare department.

The Board of Education has reserved Russ auditorium for the occasion and the staff of the County Welfare department are devoting themselves wholeheartedly to the effort of making this one of the happiest and most outstanding events of their clients' lives. Those desiring to attend are requested to get in touch with their respective visitors. Tickets will be obtainable at the County Welfare department.

Preceding the opera there will be a concert by the Federal Philarmonic orchestra with Dr. Charles Breach conducting. Both the orchestra and the Opera company are divisions of the WPA federal music project, and number among their performers wellknown artists of the musical world.

The hour for the concert has been set at 2 p. m. in order that the elderly guests may be able to return to their homes before nightfall.

Many of these people live in the rural districts or in localities remote from public transportaton. Many others are crippled or otherwise disabled so that they cannot make use of street cars. This will afford the public an opportunity to share in this splendid undertaking by placing their private automobiles at the service of those who could not otherwise attend. All citizens who can offer their cars and their service as chauffeur on this occasion, are requested to get in touch with the County department of Public Welfare (Franklin 7641).

FIRST MEETING ROOSEVELT CLUB WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The "On With Roosevelt Club" of Ocean Beach, will hold its first public meeting at the Woman's club, Wednesday eve, April 15 at 8 p. m.

Ocean Beach Democrats and their friends are respectfully urged to attend this very important meeting.

MONTHLY MEETING CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MONDAY NITE

Next Monday evening is the regular monthly meeting of the Ocean Beach chamber of commerce, to be held at the Woman's clubhouse.

All persons interested in the welfare of the beach are urged to attend.

EXPO PLANS MANY EASTER CEREMONIES

The formal opening of the great Ford Bowl at the Exposition will be heralded next Sunday afternoon when the 240-piece Bonham Boys Band presents a special Easter Musical concert beginning at 2 p. m.

This will mark the first event to be staged in the huge bowl during the 1936 season of the Exposition. The senior and junior Bonham bands will combine for the concert under direction of Jules Jacques.

The ceremony will be one of the musical highlights of Easter observance on the Expo grounds.

With the coming of Easter, the Exposition completed arrangements for a week-long series of programs to be climaxed Sunday with the Mount Helix services and a score of outstanding musical offerings on the grounds.

During the week, all children under the age of 16 were admitted to the Exposition each day for 5 cents. The kids observance will be climaxed Saturday when a mammoth Easter egg hunt will be staged on the grounds.

Permits Granted For Four New Homes

Building was started Monday this week by W. Le Jeune, 4953, 4959 Niagara avenue, on a duplex to cost $2200.

Mrs. H. Lipsett has received permit for the construction of a small frame cottage on her lot at 4966 Coronado avenue to cost about $1,000.

B. M. Torgerson is building for himself at 2844 Chatsworth blvd., a frame-stucco residence and garage to cost $7,500.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Carnevelli, 5013 Newport avenue, are building a tile residence at rear of their store and it is reported will shortly close their business and rent the building facing on Newport avenue.

O.E.S. Retired Officers Are Honor Guests

Point Loma chapter No. 490 met in regular session Monday, April 6th, with Gladys Nelson, worthy matron, and Nels Berge, worthy patron, presiding. Past matrons and patrons were honored guests, and past matrons of Point Loma chapter with the exception of one, and past patrons with the exception of two were present. Sister Filthian, a visiting past matron was also present. The honored guests were escorted East, and the ladies presented with lovely corsages by the worthy matron.

Ballotting was exemplified, and four were elected to receive the degrees of the order.

Following the closing of chapter, a skit entitled "A Midnight Fantasy", was presented, starring Ann Lundberg and Ruth Bailey. Refreshments and decorations, prepared and arranged by Gladys Nelson, Alice Hite and Fern Herbst, carried out the Easter thought, with baby chicks emerging from cracked egg shells serving as place cards.

Private Employment Shows Good Increase

458 placements in private employment were made by San Diego office of the California State Employment service during the month of March, 1936, according to Ray Mathewson, manager. This is an increase of more than 53 percent over the previous month of February and it is an increase of 275 percent over the month of March, 1935. 131 women were placed in household domestic work, food and restaurant industries, and stores and offices. Most of the male placements were made on building and highway construction projects and in agricultural work. 135 persons were transferred thru the office from WPA projects to private employment during March. "Every facility at the command of this office is being used to affect transfer of persons from the WPA into private industry", said Mr. Mathewson. "Our campaign to make this service available to all employers of labor in San Diego county is meeting with appreciable success. There is every indication that private employment is on the up-turn in San Diego county and that the demand for workers in private industry is increasing. All employers of labor are urged to take advantage of the service this office is able to render them in securing competent workers to fill their employment needs."

Nearly Eight Million In Home Loans Here

Home owners in San Diego County have received loans for refinancing their homes from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, amounting to $7,729,241, according to an announcement made by Donald Renshaw, state director for the National Emergency Council. This total represents 3,167 individual loans to home owners to January 2, 1936.

Methodist Church Appeals For Funds

The following letter is being sent to business houses of Ocean Beach and the appeal to relieve a part of the financial burden now facing the Methodist church, here should have the undivided support of the entire Point Loma district. This church and its members are valuable to our community and there is no reason why its obligations cannot be successfully liquidated. —The Editor.

TO THE MERCHANTS OF OCEAN BEACH

Would you care to do business in a town which had no churches?

Do you believe that a church is an asset to your community?

The Point Loma Methodist church located at Sunset Cliffs Blvd. and Saratoga avenue, has been an integral part of the community life of Ocean Beach for the past six years.

Our Sunday school has an average attendance of 150 children, the Epworth League has 60 young people of high school age, and the church has an average Sunday morning attendance of 80 adults.

Our church is a strong influence in the moral, spiritual and social life in our community.

The mortgage is due—The interest is delinquent—and unless these obligations are met a foreclosure is imminent.

In order to "Save this Sanctuary" may we rely upon your financial aid?

A committee will call upon you within the next few days.

Very sincerely yours,
SAVE THE SANCTUARY COMMITTEE
POINT LOMA METHODIST CHURCH

Ocean Beach PTA Elects New Officers

Ocean Beach PTA has elected to office for the coming year Mrs. Esther Wisdom, president; 1st vice president Mrs. Neva Hall; 2nd vice president, Mrs. T. M. Welch; secretary, Mrs. Miriam Frieze; Miss Martha Farnum, auditor; Mrs. M. H. Michael, treasurer; Mrs. Don Horner, historian; Mrs. Florence McCausland, parliamentarian.

Beginning with April, the new fiscal year starts in with plans in full swing for the cherry-blossom bridge in the lounge of Ocean Village hotel. Only a little more than a week remains. If you have not reserved your tickets and tables, you may do so by phoning BV 0827-J, Mrs. Marie Davis, or BV 1146-R, Mrs. T. M. Welch, who resides opposite the school. Other games, besides 500 and bridge will be provided for guests. This is Ocean Beach Parent-Teachers association's annual effort in meeting its budget for welfare and convention expenses.

The arc light in the alley back of the skating rink between Newport and Niagara avenues was recently ordered out by the city council but interested citizens here protested. They appeared before the city council Tuesday and stated that this alley was used as a street a great deal by both pedestrians and autos there being no nearer thoroughfare along the ocean.

We think it would have been rank folly to take out this light, which is a great protection on a dark night, and were pleased to see the protest go in to the council, chamber against its removal.

MASONIC DANCE SET FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 18

Point Loma Masons and Eastern Stars, as well as their friends, are requested to join in their dance on Saturday night, April 18th, for a general good time.

All Masons and their friends are invited.

Half Million Farmers May Get Double Federal Benefits—New Processing Taxes Abandoned—Clements Quits as Townsend Plan Secretary.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

REXFORD G. TUGWELL, head of the rural resettlement administration, announced that a special committee is considering a plan under which more than half a million growers of farm products would receive double benefits from the federal government. It provides that the rural families now getting loans from Tugwell's administration to put them on their feet and keep them off the relief rolls may also receive full subsidy payments in connection with the soil conservation program now being put into operation. There are now 450,000 recipients of the Tugwell loans and the number is expected to increase to 525,000 by July 1.

R. G. Tugwell

The soil conservation subsidies are to be paid to farmers who transfer land from commercial crop production to soil conserving growths, or who resort to other "economic" farm practices. Officials said that the rehabilitation clients already are under obligation to treat their soil wisely. Before a family can obtain a rehabilitation loan it must agree to follow a farm management plan drafted by the government.

This plan stipulates that the borrower must conserve his land's fertility and grow food and feed crops for home consumption. It also includes a financial budget.

ONE of the major features of the new tax program suggested by President Roosevelt is omitted from the measure prepared by a house subcommittee and on which open hearings were begun by the ways and means committee. For political reasons it was decided that the plan for new processing taxes on farm and competing products should be abandoned. Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion for a "windfall" tax to recapture part of the refunded or unpaid AAA processing levies was accepted by the subcommittee.

A third suggestion of the President, for graduated taxes on the portions of incomes which corporations do not distribute in dividends to stockholders, was changed to provide levies on total income of corporations varied according to percentages of profits put into reserves.

The subcommittee agreed that the corporation tax rates should be so drafted as to permit corporations, particularly small ones, to build up reserves for lean years without being compelled to pay comparatively high taxes for the privilege of doing so.

The subcommittee figured on collecting some $25,000,000 from taxes on dividends going to foreigners who own stock in American corporations and $83,000,000 from temporary continuation of the capital stock and excess profits taxes.

JUST as Chairman C. Jasper Bell and his house committee were about to open their inquiry into the finances of the Townsend old age pension plan organization, Robert E. Clements, co-founder, secretary and director of the movement, resigned. He was summoned to be the first witness before the committee but said his resignation was not motivated by this, but was solely due to his opposition to political activities of other leaders of the organization. Dr. F. E. Townsend in Los Angeles expressed his "hearty approval" of Clements' action, and it was predicted other officials of the movement would follow the secretary's example. Clements appeared before the committee with a great mass of records, ready to "account for every penny collected." Before testifying he said: "I have nothing to hide. I'm anxious to appear. I have been responsible for financing the Townsend plan. I have collected around $850,000 and the organizaton has spent about $750,000. There is still $100,000 on hand."

R. E. Clements

SEVERAL witnesses who appeared before a senate subcommittee declared that the Robinson-Patman anti-chain store bill, which has administration backing, would promote rather than curb monopolies, increase the cost and lower the standard of living, and decrease employment in whole industries.

The hearing was on the Borah-Van Nuys bill, a modification of the Robinson-Patman measure, but the witnesses particularly attacked the latter, which already has been reported favorably. The house judiciary committee reported the Utterback bill, still another modification of the Robinson-Patman measure, and a bitter fight over the proposed legislation is expected.

The Robinson-Patman bill would prohibit manufacturers from making price discriminations in favor of large quantity purchasers, through advertising allowances, service charges, brokerage fees, etc. The Borah-Nuys bill would prohibit such allowances only when they were refused to purchasers of goods of "like grade, quality, and quantity."

ONE of the big fights within the American Federation of Labor has been settled peacefully. It was for control of the building trades department. In the past, building projects have been held up by strikes growing out of arguments over which of two unions should do a certain piece of work. The peace pact provides for appointment of an impartial referee to settle such arguments.

The pact also called for J. W. Williams of the carpenters to head the reorganization department, with M. J. McDonough of the plasterers as secretary-treasurer. Each has been the leader of one of the warring factions and each has styled himself as the lawful department president.

BENITO MUSSOLINI evidently expects another European war, and in preparation for it he announced several drastic measures on the seventeenth anniversary of the founding of the Fascist party. He abolished the chamber of deputies, substituting for it a council of guilds; and he also eliminated the country's large industries, leaving the medium and small private industries in existence. This latter move, he told the council of the 22 guilds of the corporative state, was to increase the nation's economic self-sufficiency. "When and how war will come, one does not know," he said, "but the wheel of fate turns fast."

Benito Mussolini

Mussolini asserted the large industries, particularly those working for the defense of the nation, would be formed into organizations called "key industries." These, he said, "will be run directly or indirectly by the government. Some will have mixed organization."

HAVING sent Joachim von Ribbentrop back to London with a modified rejection of the four power plans for peace in western Europe, Hitler was preparing his counter proposals which British Foreign Minister Eden had requested. Meanwhile the reichsfuehrer continued his campaign tour, delivering rousing speeches in defense of his policies. Speaking in Ludwigshafen, in the heart of the remilitarized Rhineland, he said: "Those who want us to grovel on our knees before agreeing to talk with us forget we are not a tribe of savages, but a European nation looking back on thousands of years of culture.

"I stretch out my hand to France. We want peace for common sense reasons. Germany needs no more fame on the battlefield, but is now getting ready to seek laurels in the Olympic peace competition of nations. Men who relish the indecent thought of victor and vanquished are not statesmen. They must be silent when peace talks start."

Most of the continental statesmen who gathered in London to consider the Rhineland affair went home, some of them in very bad humor over the indecisive proceedings. The French, disinclined to consider any further proposals from Hitler, were urging that the French, British and Belgian general staffs get together on plans in accordance with the Locarno treaty.

IN CONNECTION with the signing of the new naval treaty by the United States, Great Britain and France, it was disclosed in London that the two first named powers have reaffirmed the 50-50 ratio for their fleets and again promised not to compete against each other in naval building. The new three power pact limits the size of battleships to 35,000 tons, retains 10,000 tons as the maximum for cruisers and provides no cruisers of that size shall be built for six years.

In the expiring Washington treaty there was an article regarding fortification of naval bases. This is not renewed in the new pact, and Japan requested information as to the future intentions of the powers. Consequently the United States, Great Britain and Japan were carrying on diplomatic conversations on that topic.

The new treaty gives the signatories certain liberty of action in the event of unforeseen naval activity by powers not signatory to the treaty. So far as America is concerned, this "escape clause" is taken to apply mainly to Japan.

FOURTEEN persons perished in Mexico's worst aviation disaster. A big trimotored plane carrying ten European tourists and four company employees crashed on the ridge between the volcanoes Popocatapetl and Ixtaccihuatl and there were no survivors to explain why it fell. Among the tourists were Prince Adolf of Schaumburg-Lippe and his wife, Princess Elisbeth.

KOKI HIROTA, the new liberal premier of Japan, declared in an interview: "While I am premier there will be no war"; and continued: "We intend to cultivate our traditional friendship with Great Britain, the United States, Russia, and other powers, thus fulfilling our great mission of stabilizing east Asia."

On the same day that Hirota made this pronouncement the soviet Russian government ordered its ambassador to Japan to lodge a strong protest following a new border engagement which Soviet advices said resulted from a Japanese attack on a Red frontier post. Fighting lasted for hours, entailing loss of life on both sides, said the reports.

FEDERAL reserve board has prescribed a 55 per cent minimum margin for purchases of stocks, the ruling becoming effective April 1 for stocks bought through brokers and May 1 for those bought through banks.

The margin regulations were made to apply only to listed securities on registered stock exchanges, thus having no effect upon the large over-the-counter market.

The maximum loan value applying to registered stocks has been fixed at 45 per cent of current market value.

WITH only one change, the house passed the senate bill to continue the Electric Home and Farm authority as a federal agency until February 1, 1937, or any earlier date decreed by the President. The authority was created to help finance sales of electrical appliances.

HENRY BOYLE SOMERVILLE, aged and retired vice admiral of the British navy, was murdered by gunmen at his residence at Castletownsend, County Cork, Irish Free State. Thrown through the door of the house was a card bearing these words:

"This British agent sent 52 Irish boys into the British army in the last few months. He will send no more."

The admiral had received previous threats because of his recruiting activities.

INTREPID citizens of scores of cities and towns in the eastern and New England states which were devastated by the unprecedented floods were digging out their homes and places of business from the mud and debris as the turbulent waters of many rivers subsided. Reconstruction and refitting began everywhere immediately, and this, as well as the relief of the suffering thousands, was aided by funds totaling more than $43,000,000 allocated by President Roosevelt before he left Washington for Florida.

Rough estimates were that the total dead in 13 states were 169; the homeless were 221,500, and the total property damage, $271,500,000. The last figure probably would be tripled if one took into account the losses from interruption to industry and trade and the stoppage of the wages of labor.

Cities along the lower Ohio were threatened as the flood waters raced down to the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico, but they had had plenty of warning and were in a measure prepared.

ISABELLA GREENWAY, the capable lady who has represented Arizona in congress since October, 1933, has announced in Tucson that she will retire from public life at the conclusion of her present term. She was first elected for the remainder of the term of Lewis Douglas, who resigned to become director of the budget, and was re-elected in 1934.

Mrs. Greenway

Mrs. Greenway owns and operates several ranches in Arizona and New Mexico and a hotel in Tucson, and is also interested in some mining companies. Undoubtedly she could go back to congress without opposition, but she says she wants to devote more time to her private activities.

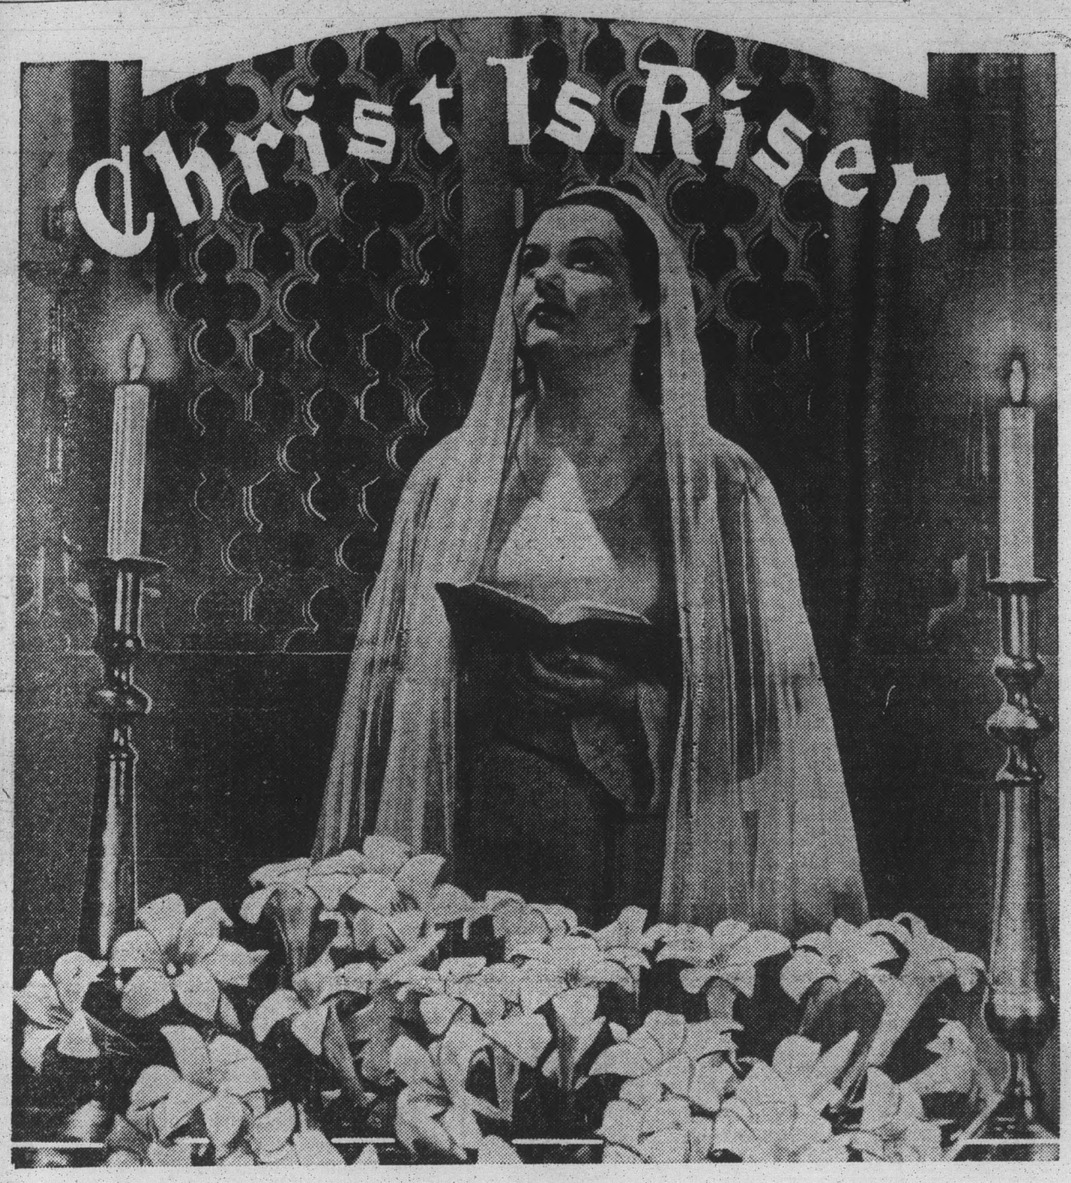
STILL refusing to appropriate $12,000,000 for the Florida ship canal, the senate passed the army bill carrying approximately $611,000,000. More than half the sum goes for the military activities of the War department.

There will be no reduction in the number of CCC camps during most of the coming fiscal year, and the enrollees will be kept up to about the 350,000 mark. This was the decision of President Roosevelt after a threatened revolt of Democratic representatives induced him to change his mind in the matter.

Senator Black, chairman of the senate lobbying committee, has added the Wichita Beacon to the papers whose telegrams he has seized or attempted to seize.

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH is campaigning earnestly for the Republican Presidential nomination, and has just received a big boost for his cause in the announcement that Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder of the old age pension plan that bears his name, will give the Idahoan all his support. Repudiating President Roosevelt and changing his registration at Long Beach, Calif., from Democratic to Republican, Townsend said Borah was the only Republican candidate who "even approached" the standard of the Townsendites, although the senator has refused to indorse the Townsend pension plan as it stands.

Hitherto the Townsend organization had favored circulation of third party petitions in every state to enlist millions of people as a demonstration of strength. So the doctor's announcement is a reversal of policy.



RING out the bells, beloved, the joyous Easter bells,
Celestial harmony along their cadence rolls and swells,
The blessed Christ is risen in the hearts that throb and thrill
Responsive to Love's law wherein we may all laws fulfill.

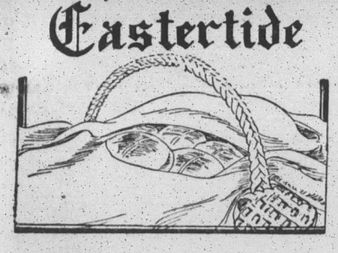
Merry Old England at Eastertide



MUCH has been related of the spiritual observances of merry old England at the Eastertide, and too little told of the culinary achievements that tickled the palates of peasants and courtiers alike on that great feast day, writes Marion Butler in the Chicago Tribune.

Not only were these Easter dishes intriguing in appearance and taste, but they were made doubly fascinating by folk ceremonies that attended them.

Nearly every day of the old English Easter week had its own special dish and unusual practices to go along with it. Shrove Tuesday was, and still is, in some sections, known as "Pancake day." Although the term "shrove" was originally derived from the Anglo-Saxon "scrifan," meaning to levy a penance, the English epicures evidently invented a most delightful way of paying up, for on this day it became traditional for every family to bake thick, mealy pancakes, flavored with sherry, and serve them sizzling hot for breakfast.

Maundy Thursday was the day on which the kings of England used to distribute baskets of food, known as "maunds," to the poor. These were especially coveted for the fine, white bread that they contained, loaves such as those being rare delicacies of that time. James II was the last sovereign to perform this ancient ceremony with all the elaborate church rites that attended it.

Good Friday fairly abounds in curious legends and customs connected with hot cross buns. In the early hours of Good Friday morning, Englishmen used to be abruptly torn from their pleasant slumbers by the great hue and cry of the bun vendors, who paraded the twisting, narrow streets of the towns, pushing their unwieldy bun carts before them, and chanting from dawn to dusk the familiar, old refrain: "Hot cross buns! One a penny, two a penny! Hot cross buns!"

Since modern warming contrivances were unknown in those days, these vendors had a difficult time keeping their wares hot. They carried them in large wicker baskets, such as we still use on wash days here. The buns were placed in layers of flannel to keep them warm, and then covered over with an outer cloth of white or green. It is related that the bun vendors of old were also extremely cautious in the manner in which they handed out the buns to customers, permitting only one hand to slide gingerly beneath the covers in drawing out their wares, thus allowing only the smallest possible breath of air to penetrate inside.

The hot cross buns of yesteryears were much more crisp and crunchy than our softer modern ones. They also were more highly flavored with spices, and had a sticky coating of browned sugar. So favorite a dainty did these old pastries become with the English, that more than two hundred years ago in Chelsea, two royal bun houses sprang up, waging the bitterest of "bun feuds" over the all-important question of which baked the best buns?

Each contended that the English kings and queens, themselves, patronized its house. One took the name of Chelsea Bun House, and the other that of the Real Old Original Chelsea Bun House. Popular taste seemed to shift, at intervals, from one to the other.

Both occupied large, frame buildings with covered counters, stretching along their fronts. People used to travel miles on foot and horseback, getting up at the first flush of dawn on Good Friday morning, to eat fresh hot cross buns there, or to buy them in square, black boxes to take back home.

Although the Christian sign of the cross has been imprinted upon these hot cross buns for many centuries now, they were really products of pre-Christian times! Egyptian priests used to sell buns in front of their temples, compiling small fortunes from these strange "admission tickets."

"Hot Cross Buns! One a Penny, Two a Penny! Hot Cross Buns!"

In primitive England, pagan tribes rudely mixed ceremonial buns of coarse grain and water as an offering to the coming of the spring sun, an event which they celebrated at wild festivals. With the coming of Christianity, the clergy waged warfare against this pagan practice, but met with such scant success that they evidently decided to make the best of a bad bargain by converting the buns into Christian symbols through the holy mark of the cross.

Another strange kind of bread, baked by old English cooks on Good Friday, was a loaf of very hard biscuit dough, having the sign of the cross perforated in it. The peasants carefully hung these loaves from their cottage roofs, leaving them there until Good Friday morning of the following year as special talismans to protect their homes from fire. In the dark, superstitious days prior to modern medicine, to these curious loaves were attributed the healing powers of the family doctor of modern times.

Whenever an illness fell upon them, these devout peasants of long ago would dissolve small bits of the bread in water, and drink it with as much faith in its curative qualities as we would have in the scientifically prescribed medicine or tonic of today!

Stone from Which Christ Ascended Into Heaven

EGGS AT EASTER

THE use of eggs at Easter time follows a custom of greatest antiquity, the egg having been considered in widely separated pre-Christian mythologies as the symbol of resurrection. It is probable that the Christian church adopted and consecrated an earlier custom. The egg is generally regarded as the symbol of spring, life and fecundity of nature.

The Egg Is Pagan

Not many people realize that the word Easter, although the name of a Christian festival, is a survival of paganism, says Tit-Bits Magazine. It takes its name from Eostre, the pagan goddess, who was identified with the Aurora Borealis, the "rising light of day and spring." Norsemen welcomed her annually in a festival of celebration featuring an egg and a rabbit as symbols of fecundity. The survival of this custom is our present Easter egg, tinted in imitation of the quivering beams of the Aurora Borealis.

As the Christian festival coincides with the period of the pagan one, and there is a certain beautiful similarity between them, the name has naturally been retained.

DARKNESS OF CRUCIFIXION

THE "darkness over all the earth" at the time of the crucifixion could not have been caused by an eclipse of the sun for the reason that it occurred just after the passover, at the time of full moon, and an eclipse can only occur when the moon is between us and the sun, or at the time called "the dark of the moon."

Spirited Pup Is Easy to Do in Cross Stitch

PATTERN 5493

Isn't he versatile—this pup that can wash, iron, sew and even play a violin? Just having him around—on tea towels or scarf ends, will brighten your day. Brighten, too, the hours you spend embroidering his amusing antics in cross stitch. They're ever so easy to do—with crosses 8 to the inch, and before you know it you've one for each day of the week. Use a variety of colors, or two shades of any color that you like.

In pattern 5493 you will find a transfer pattern of seven motifs averaging 5 by 8 inches; color suggestions; material requirements; illustrations of all the stitches that are needed.

Here Also Tax Collector Was Persona Non Grata

Ladders, not roads, are the only approaches to Norway's more inaccessible farms, which are mere ledges on the mountains. Norwegian farmers in the old days sometimes pulled up their ladders when the tax collector came by, but a law later made a stationary ladder of iron compulsory.

Elimination of Body Waste Is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without griping

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Vancouver Hindus Cremate Their Dead Publicly

ALTHOUGH they are dressed in the manner and mode of the western hemisphere, the members of this Hindu colony on Vancouver island still cling to their old world customs. One of them is the public cremation of their dead. The body, covered with a sheet, is placed on a pile of cordwood, and when the last rites of the Hindu faith are performed, additional wood is placed over the body and the entire mass set afire. In this picture the last rites are being said over the body of Karmal, the wife of Kartar Singh.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

SAMMY JAY TAKES A HAND

SAMMY JAY was bubbling over with excitement as he flew through the Green Forest following Lightfoot the Deer. He was so excited he wanted to scream, but he didn't. He kept his tongue still. You see, he didn't want Lightfoot to know that he was being followed. Under that pointed cap of Sammy Jay's are quick wits. It didn't take him long to discover that the big stranger whom Lightfoot was seeking was doing his best to keep out of Lightfoot's way in which Lightfoot was searching for him. Lightfoot made so much noise that it was quite easy to know just where he was and so keep out of his way.

"That stranger is nearly as big as Lightfoot, but it is very plain that he doesn't want to fight," thought Sammy. "He must be a coward."

Now, the truth is, the stranger was not a coward. He was ready and willing to fight if he had to, but if he could avoid fighting he meant to. You see, big as he was, he wasn't quite as big as Lightfoot, and he knew it. He had seen Lightfoot's big footprints and from their size knew that Lightfoot must be bigger and heavier than he. Then, too, he knew that he really had no right to be there in the Green Forest. That was Lightfoot's home, and so he was an intruder. He knew that Lightfoot would feel this way about it and that this would make him fight all the harder.

So the big stranger wanted to avoid a fight if possible. But he wanted still more to find that beautiful young visitor with the dainty feet for whom Lightfoot had been looking. He wanted to find her, just as Lightfoot wanted to find her, and he hoped that if he should find her he could take her away with him back to the Great Mountain. If he had to he would fight for her, but until he had to he would keep out of the fight. So he dodged Lightfoot and at the same time looked for Miss Daintyfoot.

All this Sammy Jay guessed, and after a while he grew tired of following Lightfoot for nothing. "I'll have to take a hand in this thing myself," muttered Sammy. "At this rate Lightfoot never will find that big stranger!"

So Sammy stopped following Lightfoot and began to search through the Green Forest for the big stranger. It didn't take him very long to find him. He was over near the pond of Paddy the Beaver. As soon as he saw him Sammy began to scream at the top of his lungs. At once he heard the sound of snapping twigs at the top of the little ridge back of Paddy's pond, and knew that Lightfoot had heard and understood.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

TASTY GOOD THINGS

HERE is something which will be found new by most of us and is a most appetizing dish:

Egg Noodle Custard.

Take five ounces of egg noodles and cook until tender and well done, then drain. Add two cupfuls of milk and let them stand three-fourths of an hour. Add one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of lemon extract and the slightly beaten yolks of four eggs. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff, add one-half cupful of sugar and fold into the above mixture. Pour into a buttered mold and bake one hour. Serve with:

Yankee Doodle Sauce.

Chop one-third of a cupful of candied ginger fine; add an equal quantity of ground orange rind, using only the yellow part. Add one-fourth of a cupful of pecan meats coarsely chopped, one-fourth teaspoonful of cinnamon if liked, and serve with thick cream to soften.

Spaghetti Caruso.

Take one-half pound each of spaghetti and fresh mushrooms, three-fourths of a cupful of butter or half cupful of olive oil, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of chicken stock, one-half cupful of cooked chopped chicken livers and parmesan cheese. Cook the spaghetti until tender, drain. Peel mushrooms and cut into small pieces, cook in the oil or butter about ten minutes, all the chicken stock, salt, and cook ten minutes more. Add the spaghetti and chicken liver and return to the heat just long enough to heat thoroughly. Serve with grated cheese.

Macaroni Alabam'.

Cook one-half pound of macaroni until tender, drain; add two cupfuls of milk very slowly to one-half cupful of peanut butter, making a creamy sauce, season with one teaspoonful of salt, add the macaroni and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs mixed with chopped peanuts and brown under the broiler.

CARD AND TUMBLER

TWO objects are required for this trick: namely, a playing card and a small drinking glass. Holding the card between the thumb and fingers of his right hand, the magician sets the tumbler on the card with his left hand.

Then he moves his left hand away. Amazingly, the tumbler balances upon the upper edge of the card and remains there until the performer removes it. The card and the glass may be examined afterward.

During this trick, the spectators see only the front of the card. A glance behind scenes would reveal the secret. The magician keeps only three fingers at the side of the card. His forefinger is back of the card.

Pointing upward, hidden by the card, the forefinger serves as an additional resting spot for the glass. The card and the finger are really the supports.

Let Not Affection Fade

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A SADDER sight the sad heart knows
Than petals falling from a rose,
Than dying grasses where a plain
No longer feels the kiss of rain,
Than shattered beauty when a tree
Lies postrate, never more to be:
Such things are even sadder when
They happen in the hearts of men.

For like a rose whose day is done,
Its petals falling one by one,
And like a plain whose withered grass
Shall never green again, alas,
And like a tree whose branches lie
Along the ground, to droop and die,
So is the careless fading of
That thing of beauty known as love.

Let not that sadness come to you
If there is anything to do:
A more forgiving tenderness
To make you love the more, not less,
Any eye for virtue, not for sin,
Since mortals all have both within—
Let every rose fall in the glade,
But not your own affection fade.

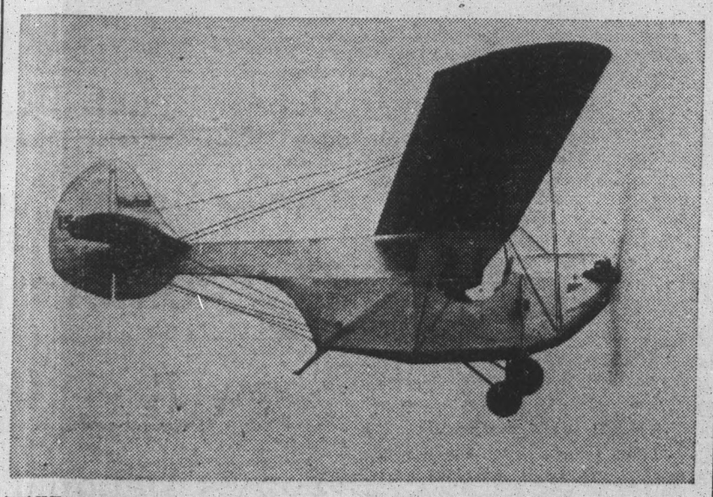
Anyone Could Fly This Plane



THE airplane that is heralded as one that "even grandma can fly with ease and safety," is shown soaring through the sky at College Park airport, Washington, when it was put through tests for the benefit of the bureau of air commerce. The plane was designed and built by A. B. Green, and is a radical departure from usual airplane construction. It has a wing span of 36 feet, can fly 75 miles in an hour on 2½ gallons of gasoline, and weighs, empty, only 465 pounds. This ship will sell for about $700.

CRUDE TENTS ARE BEST FOR SCHOOLS, LAPLANDERS FIND

Abisko, Sweden-Lapland, in the north of Europe, is one of the few places in the world where school houses can be built too well. The Lapp school is merely a tent-like shed with birch branches on the floor for beds, an open hearth and the crudest fittings.

Years ago when better school houses were tried, it was discovered that when Lapp children had to sleep in beds, take baths and eat fresh vegetables, they caught colds that usually developed into pneumonia. Officials therefore wisely provided that schools here should be built as nearly like the average Lapp home as possible.

Education in Lapland is a wandering affair. The people depend on their herds of reindeer for a living, and when these make their migrations, the family must quickly pack its belongings and follow dutifully behind. Teacher and school must do the same thing, for Sweden takes good care to see that the Lapps receive an education.

In summer, however, the Lapps have a comparatively easy time of it. Then they settle down by the shores of lakes or on mountain slopes, and there it is that visitors to Abisko for the midnight sun see this curious race.

THE RISEN IMMANUEL

The dawn of Easter brings the symbol of Hope to mankind; were it not for this consoling truth this old world would, indeed, be a desolate dwelling place! Loss of wealth, troublesome difficulties (real and fansified), mental harrassments or every immaginable disease, all taken together, would be nothing compared with lost hope in the Ressurrection Life. This is why Easter Sunday and Christmas commemorate the two greatest festal events of human joy.

It, however, has been recognized since apostolic time that Easter is regarded as the major event of festivals; thus it is given the central place in the liturgical year, and all other movable feasts are dependent upon the Easter date. Matthew Arnold declares that the essential and proper act learned from Easter and its influence, is character development, moral courage and strength under Divine Will and Guidance. After a day spent in sacred music, lofty thinking and inspired for new resolutions, this cannot help but be timely advice.

Easter brings redemption to a lost world; this is the enchanting message to a perplexed world full of chastisement and misunderstandings. Mankind is mysteriously tried and corrected thru this seemingly bitter revenge. Easter tidings is a soothing balm to a sore and distracted world. Handel caught the spirit of Easter and while under the inspiration and awakening he immediately composed The Messiah, his greatest achievement; and its permeating influence, it has placed him among the immortals. Easter, then, should not only be exultation; it is Easter exaltation! It is more than a special festal day, for it points to the way of man's immortality. The world is proving by its advancement, this ever-living benediction.

In this present age we see vast comparison with that of a century ago. It is a far cry from wooden plough to the tractor, from the candle to electricity, from Newton to Einstein; yet with all the marvels in improvements, we still have a limited understanding. Thru science and other advanced discoveries, we are still seeking to penetrate the past to know the present and be better able to discern the promises and benefits of the future.

Let this Easter Sunday be your opportunity; catch its inspiration, learn its meaning, then dress up your best with reverence for the day, and go to church, mingle with the people in song and flowers!

The most solemn event during the entire Lenten season is "Good Friday", which is observed on Friday, April 10th. Coming just before Easter, it commemorates the Crucifixion of Christ, and services for the occasion are usually held in the various churches, in a three-hour devotion, from 12 o'clock noon to 3 o'clock p. m., the hours when Jesus Christ hung upon the cross. Solemn strains of mournful music in song and at the console usher in the religious rites with fitting anthems by chosen surpliced choirs. It is customary for all ministers of the different churches and tabernacles to unite in grand public union meeting attended by the people of the community. Appropriate words from able speakers emphasizing the spirit of the one who suffered and died as a sacrifice for human redemption. While this meaningful devotion has its sad aspect, it preceeds a most joyful response of gratitude over a Risen Lord, proclaiming "Joy to the World, the Lord has Come!"

This state is promised a bumper peach crop this year. It is estimated that the yield will exceed ten million cases, valued at $30,000,000. There is no doubt that fruit conditions in California are the nearest to perfection, compared with other states. The canneries and packing houses are already getting prepared to meet the heavy yield; also to find a dependable market for the extra surplus this year. There is some alarm over the last year surplus now on hand and waiting to be moved. This surplus is estimated at 3,000,000 cases more than usual, and considerable worriment seems to face the committee as it tries to avoid a slump and loss to the growers.

The Veterans' Welfare Board is carrying on yoeman service for the boys, and fully a million dollars a month are being spent. The block of bonds for $5,000,000 sold readily recently and gave California much praise for ranking among the highest in the purchase, showing great credit. Proceeds from the sale of these bonds will be used to finance veterans' homes and farms. Interest and redemption on these bonds are paid veteran contract holders who have purchased properties under the provisions of the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase Act, and will not cost (it must be remembered) the taxpayers of the State of California one single penny. The veterans are getting quick service and the boys may feel thankful that the affairs of the V. W. B. are doing the work on a sound footing, epecially since the red tape prevailing in the past has been cut.

This nation is sure "wetting its whistle"—pardon the slang. Just a polite phrase for "boozing", or perhaps it may be unethical to say the word. It is far more severe to call Uncle Sam an inebriate, but "figures don't lie". During the month of January, 1936, the tax paid out on imported spirit was 1,146,958 gallons, as compared with 540,032 gallons in January, 1935, and the consumption of domestic distilled spirits was 7,893,927 gallons as compared with 5,718,373 gallons in January, 1935. To these figures should be added a consumption of rectified distilled spirits of 2,304,132 (proof gallons) as compared with 1,234,568 gallons in January, 1935. The consumption of fermented malt liquors (beer) was approximately 400,000 barrels greater in January, 1936, than a year ago. For every dollar the government received in the past in liquor taxes the people spent $5 as the cost of drunkenness, poverty and crime, aside from broken hearts and shattered homes! No wonder Othello exclaimed: "O God, that men should put an enemy in their mouth to steal away their brains!"

AMERICAN LEGION
NO. 433 and AUXILIARY

On Thursday April 2nd, a most colorful and instructive meeting was held at which time the ritual team of the Kenneth L. Blanchard post 255 of National City initiated eight new members of this post and among them Capt. Fred Norris, and Mrs. Norris who was a Yoemanette in the Navy during the war. She holds the honor of being the first woman to be initiated in this post but not the first to belong as Comrade Mrs. Ruggles, hold the that honor, she also was a Yoemanette.

Big Red Cross card party to be held April 16th at Legion Hall

Everybody keep this date open and come to the American Legion card party at 1957 Abbott st., on Thursday April 16th, as it will be for the benefit of the flood sufferers back in those eastern states where the weather has been unusually bad this winter. Gather up your friends and neighbors and bring them down to an enjoyable evening with the feeling that you are doing a good deed that will long be remembered by those helped by this worthwhile party.

There will be no admission fee, but someone will take home a big 12 lb ham as a grand prize, and dthe entire porceeds will be turned over to the American Red Cross.

NEW CALIFORNIA PROGRAM SIGNS TWO FAMOUS STARS

Jane Froman, lovely radio songstress, will return to her radio audience as featured singer of the new "California's Hour" program, to be broadcast for the first time the night of April 13. Conrad Nagel, noted actor, will enter the field of radio as a master of ceremonies. The program will be on a California network every Monday evening from 9 to 10 o'clock.

Beautiful Jane Froman will return to the air and Conrad Nagel, distinguished actor of stage and screen, will assume the role of master of ceremonies when the spectacular new radio program, "California's Hour," takes to the air waves for the first time on Monday night, April 13, at 9 p. m.

The celebrated pair will be regular featured stars of the program which is to headline various guest artists of the films, stage, and radio, and to have as its musical background the famous music of Dave Broekman and his Orchestra.

"California's Hour" will be dedicated to the glorification of California—its talented artists, its rich historical background, and its foremost communities. The program will be broadcast each Monday night over the Don Lee network of eight stations reaching from the Mexican border to the Oregon Line. It will originate in station KHJ in Los Angeles, and be broadcast over KFVK in Sacramento, KFRC in San Francisco, KWG in Stockton, KMJ in Fresno, KERN in Bakersfield, KDB in Santa Barbara, and KGB in San Diego.

Nagel who is to be host of the new hour, first gained fame on the stage, and then became a favorite of the films. He has been master of ceremonies at many of Hollywood's most illustrious gatherings, and is a former president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Miss Froman began her career as a radio singer in Cincinnati, and later was the star of many nation wide programs broadcast from Chicago and New York. She was a featured star with Paul Whiteman and his famous band, and was headlined on the Beauty Box Theatre of the air and other major programs.

HISTORY ESTABLISHMENT OF CALIFORNIA MISSIONS

* California's famous old Missions, with their historical and romantic backgrounds, annually attract thousands of visitors. Twenty-one Franciscan Missions were founded by the Rev. Fray Junipero Serra and his colleagues extending from San Diego to what is now Sonoma county. Some are in ruins, others have been restored, all are preserved as priceless landmarks. Because of recent widespread revival of interest in the old Missions, Earl Lee Kelly, Director of the Dept. of Public Works, at the request of Governor Frank F. Merriam, has prepared for the benefit of visitors, brief histories of them directions on how to reach them over California highways. For the purposes of this series, the Missions will be taken up in the order of their location from south to north, rather than in the sequence of their founding. The FIRST installment follows. *

California's twenty-one Franciscan Mission were established by members of the Order of Friars Minor, led and inspired by Fray Miguel Joseph Serra, famous in history as Father Junipero Serra.

St. Francis of Assisi, Italy, founded the Order of Friars Minor, better known as the Order of Franciscan Monks, in 1209. It is a missionary brotherhood bound together by the vows of Poverty, Obedience and Chastity. Leaders of the Order in the 17th century conceived plans for a communal mission life in which Friars might create protected establishments and gather about them in family groups aboriginal people among whom they worked. Experimented with for the first time at Sinaloa, Mexico, in 1611 the plan proved successful and was adopted by the Jesuit Order in Lower California. The system was perfected by the Franciscans in Alta (Upper) California, which now is the State of California.

To Father Serra belongs the credit for the far-flung perfect mission system which played so large a part in the early history of this State.

Born in humble circumstances on the Island of Majorca in 1713, Miguel Joseph Serra entered the Franciscan Order before he was seventeen. He took the name of Junipero out of reverence for the chosen companion of St. Francis and as a youth dedicated himself to missionary work. It was not until 1749, however, that the opportunity for service in foreign fields came to him. In that year, to his unbounded joy, he and Father Francesco Palou, his friend and biograher, were appointed members of a group of priests requested by the College of San Fernando, Mexico, for duty in the New World.

Of Father Serra's long and arduous trip from Majorca to the City of Mexico much has been written by that faithful chronicler, Father Palou, and many historians and writers. It is related that when Father Serra arrived at Vera Cruz so eager was he to plunge into his new apostolic duties that he would not wait for the mules and wagons, which were to transport him and his colleagues to Mexico City, and which had been delayed, and so set out on foot for his destination. He paid dearly for his impetuosity. An ulcer developed in one of his legs and thruout his life he suffered from it. On several occasions the infection brought him near to death.

Father Serra engaged in missionary work in Mexico for nearly nineteen years and then was rewarded by appointment as president of the Mission of California which, following expulsion of the Jesuits in 1768, had passed into the control of the Franciscans. There were thirteen of these missions, all in Lower California. Father Serra was fifty-five years of age when his chance to extend the missions to Upper California came.

Jose de Galvez, had been sent out to New Spain by Carlos III as visitador general of the provinces with instructions to establish military posts at San Diego and Monterey to prevent encroachments of the English and Russians. Announcing organizaton of an expedition into the north, Galvez stated that its purpose was "to establish the Catholic faith among a numerous heathen people, submerged in the obscure darkness of paganism, and to extend the dominion of the King, our Lord, and protect this peninsula from the ambitious views of foreign nations."

Assembling his forces at Santa Ana, near La Paz, Galvez invited Father Serra, then at Loreto, to visit him. Junipero enthusiastically made the long trip to Santa Ana and inspired by the prospect of a great new missionary field, joined up with Galvez.

The soldier and the priest decided that their point expedition should be divided and sent to San Diego in two sections, one by land and one by sea. Three ships, the San Carlos, the San Antonio and San Joseph, carrying troops and four missionaries, sailed from La Paz on January 9, February 15 and June 16, 1769, in the order named.

Driven off her course by storms, the San Carlos arived at San Diego twenty days after the San Antonio, altho she had sailed five weeks earlier, and of her crew all but one sailor and the cook had succumbed to scurvy and many of the soldiers had died. The San Antonio lost eight of her crew from the same disease. The San Joseph was lost at sea.

The land expedition was divided into two divisions under Captain Fernando Rveray Moncada and Governor Don Gaspar de Portola. Captain Moncada led the advance detachment and Portola followed. Father Serra was to have accompanied the Governor, but when the date of departure came his ulcerous leg kept him in bed and Portola went on without him.

It was not until March 28, several weeks later, that Father Serra with two soldiers and a servant set out on muleback to overtake the expedition. He suffered greatly enroute, but caught up with Portola. His condition became so grave that the Governor besought him to return to San Fernando for treatment. This Junipero would not do. His life was despaired of.

And then, records Father Palou, the indomitable Serra, after offering up a prayer, called one of the muleteers and said to him: "Son, do you not know how to make a remedy for the ulcer on my foot and leg?" And the muleteer answered: "Father, how should I know of any remedy? Am I a surgeon? I am a mule-driver, and can only cure harness-wounds on animals." "Then, son," Father Serra directed, "consider that I am an animal and that this ulcer is a harness-wound and prepare for me the same medicament as you would make for a beast."

Unwillingly, the muleteer obeyed, applied his preparation to the infected leg and to the astonishment of all, the good Father slept that night and the next morning was able to resume the journey.

After many hardships, Portola reached San Diego on July 1, 1769. There he found Moncada and his force and the San Carlos and San Antonio with the surviving members of the sea expedition. And there Father Serra found his new field of endeavor of which he long had dreamed. Next: Mission San Diego de Alcala.

To examine a dead bird, the feathers are removed from the under side, the abdomem is carefuly opened, the breast is cut loose on each side and turned forward. The internal organs are then carefully loosened and removed. The windpipe is cut open and the inner surface examined; the lungs are also carefully inspected. The crop is slit and the contens washed into a shallow glass dish and examined; the wall of the crop is examined by stretching and holding up before a light, so that any worms embedded in the wall may be seen. The glandular stomach is opened and washed into a glass dish and the glands are squeezed so that embedded parasites may be lossened; the wall is examined on both the inner and outer surfaces, one of the nematodes found here the globular, red tetramere shows more clearly through the outer surface.

The gizzard is opened and the contents examined, the lining is peeled off, the under surface examined also the newly exposed surface is examined carefully.

The small intestine and the ceca are split open in water, seperately; the wall of these is run through the thumb and fingers and examined carefully in order to remove any parasites which are buried in the mucus or attached to the wall.

The entestinal contents may be washed and allowed to settle several times until the water is clear and then examined in shallow glass dishes.

Lutheran Mission

"I know that my Redeemer lives, what comfort this sweet sentence gives", will be the theme for the 10:45 a. m. Easter morning sermon theme at Immanuel Lutheral. The service is preceeded by the Sunday school sessions at 9:30.

The Easter services are being held in the newly erected building which will be dedicated on the last Sunday of this month, April 26th, with guest pastors delivering the sermons.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The question "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The Golden Text is from Luke, "All flesh shall see the salvation of God."

One of the sections in the Lesson-Sermon includes these verses from Exodus: "And the Lord said unto Moses, Thus thou shalt say unto the children of Israel, Ye have seen that I have talked with you from heaven. . . . Behold, I send an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. . . . And ye shall serve the Lord your God, and he shall bless thy bread, and thy water; and I will take sickness away from the midst of thee."

The Lesson-Sermon includes also these passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Suffer no claim of sin or of sickness to grow upon the thought. . . . You have no law of His to support the necessity either of sin or sickness, but you have divine authority for denying that necessity and healing the sick."

THE THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY: POINT LOMA

The meaning of Easter will be explained in lectures on "The Mystical Meaning of Resurrection" next Sunday at Theosophical headquarters, Point Loma, when Mrs. Hazel O. Minot, Abbott B. Clark and Mrs. Hazel Boyer Braun will interpret the allegories and symbolic stories concerning Eastertime from the Theosophical standpoint, revealing it as an actual experience which even today high initiates pass through, and at the same time relating it practically to the human problems of today. They will touch on the mysterious doctrine of Avataras and point to the lives of great Sages and Seers.

Make Your Letter of Application Tell and Sell

A WELL-KNOWN advertising man once said, "Anything that can be sold at all can be sold by the written word." Certainly it is true that many men have been able to take the first, all-important step in "selling" themselves to an employer by a well-written letter.

The point is to make your letter both tell and sell. Put yourself in the employer's place. "Who are you? What have you done? What can you do that leads you to believe the man you are writing to could use your services with profit to himself?" These are the things that interest the employer and that you must have clear in your own mind before you write your letter.

Remember that you are asking someone to buy your services. The mere fact that you want a job doesn't interest him. You must convince him that the deal will be advantageous from his point of view. Be sure that your letter is neatly written, for your own appearance and other characteristics will be judged by it just as they would be by the manner in which you presented yourself for a personal interview.

An enclosed, stamped, self-addressed envelope makes it easy for your prospective employer to reply, granting you an interview. Further, it is evidence of your ability to put yourself in the other fellow's place, and many great businesses have been built on the ability of those directing them to put themselves in the place of the prospective purchasers and figure out what it is they really need.

Made a Clean Job

Little Louise had been out in the yard investigating the wonders of nature and she came running in to her mother, all excitement. "I ate a worm," said she.

Her mother, thinking that it was probably a case of imagination, decided to appeal to the child's finer feelings and she said: "Oh, that wasn't kind, was it? Just think how sad the mamma worm felt to have her little baby swallowed up."

The little girl hastened to reply: "I ate she's mamma, too."—Pathfinder Magazine.

"Florin ticked off the suspects.

"'Your ladyship, myself, the valet, Rachel, both the night-watchmen. . .'

"He hesitated there, so I dug in the spurs.

"'Is that absolutely all?'

"'Captain Faning knew,' said Florin.

"I gave a most lifelike start.

"'Captain Faning!' I cried. "So he did. And his servant, too.'

"It was Forin's turn to start.

"'And his servant?' he cried.

"'Yes, yes,' I cried. 'Both of them knew. His servant was there last night. I didn't know it when I was speaking to you. But he was behind the curtain. I don't know why.'

"Then I called upon Florin to find you—I gave all sorts of wild reasons why you must be found. And then I fainted, and good, honest Florin caught me and carried me down to my room.

"So you see I'm quite a good actress.

"Well, the hunt was up all right. Talk about sensation. . . . I could smell the lust for vengeance. The hornets were fairly off. Then I heard the incredible news.

"'Captain Faning' and his servant were gone.

"The position might be far better, for Pharaoh's at large. Still, it's very much better than it was. He's not only out of Yorick without any loss of life, but his flight has proclaimed him guilty of shedding blood.

"Well, the rest was very easy. I sent for old Florin and told him most of the truth. I told him that 'Faning' was Pharaoh and that Pharaoh was after the gold; that Pharaoh had killed young Florin and that since you, John, could prove this, he was going to take your life; that he'd only spared you till now—well, to serve his own ends; that, though that blood was your blood, for the moment I knew you were safe; but I said that your death was appointed and that, Pharaoh being Pharaoh, nothing on earth could save you —except his death."

She turned to Geoffrey.

"I don't have to ask if you agree with me there."

My cousin shrugged his shoulders.

"There's not much more to be told," Helena continued. "I said nothing of Valentine, of course. His return now might not be fatal, but he's very much better away. At a quarter to eight I left the castle a fortress and drove to Annabel."

"Unarmed and unaccompanied?" said Geoffrey.

Helena shrugged her shoulders.

"The risk was slight, and how could I take a servant to where I'd left Valentine? Yet it was vital that you should know at once that Pharaoh was out. To my dismay, you were gone, but as your room door was locked, I guessed you'd left Valentine there and so would come back. Well, we held a consultation. His orders were at once to remove the Count, and, much as I wanted to see you, I felt that for every reason those orders must take first place. You see, though Barley knew where he'd left you, neither he nor I had a map. I've been looking for you for six hours. I sat down and cried once. Sabre'll bear me out."

"The Position Might Be Far Better."

"Great heart," said Geoffrey quickly, and touched her hand.

Helena smiled.

"The glory to Sabre," she said. "And for all the good I've done, I might have given Barley a message—he'll be here in half an hour. I was able to help him, though. I diverted the household's attention while he got my wretched brother into the car. As for his ultimate disposal—well, when I look at you, I feel humble. I acknowledge a master brain. 'The Gordian knot of it he will unloose, Familiar as his garter.'"

"Pure chance," said Geoffrey lightly. "I'd painted the river just there, and the monks were very kindly and obviously simply stamping to use their skill. You know. Any friend of mine—"

This told me the truth of the matter. I knew where Valentine was. And that was some 60 miles off—in a private ward. This stood remote, its windows commanding the cloister of the convent to which it belonged. The only patients admitted were those alleged to have been bitten by dogs that were mad. The treatment lasted a fortnight.

"Well, there you are," said Helena. "There are the facts. And now, if you please, Mr. Bohun, what do we do?"

"We take you back to Yorick. I shan't know a moment's peace till you're where you belong."

"And then you're wrong," said Helena. "I'm going to see the fun."

* * * * * * * * *

In the discussion which followed I took no part and indeed I scarcely listened to what was said, for my thoughts would not leave the scene in the fragrant valley and at last, since I did not care, I tired of haling them back and let them be.

Presently I got up and made for the road, while my cousin followed behind.

As I reached the stretch of macadam—

"There's nothing for it," said Geoffrey. "We shall all have to sleep at Yorick, because of this wilful girl. Perhaps she'll see reason tomorrow. How the devil can she lie out all night? She's all in now."

"She can't, of course," said I. "But what's that to do with us?"

"Only this," said my cousin. "That she won't sleep at Yorick unless we do. Her very words."

We strolled down the road in silence, from time to time turning about.

After a while my cousin pushed back his hat.

"As a child," he said, "I never liked blindman's buff—boys and girls, I mean I liked it less. That dislike I have never lost." He put his hands to his head. "I'd give a hell of a lot to know where Pharaoh is."

I looked at him sharply. The last few words he had spoken half to himself, but his tone was the tone of a man who is worried to death. Because I was fond of Geoffrey, the instinct to share his trouble lifted its head, and in that moment my apathy fell away.

Pharaoh. Yes, where was Pharaoh? and what would Pharaoh do?

As I asked myself these questions, my newly awakened interest leaped into life. I saw that here to my hand was the very distraction I needed to drive my distemper away; the location and destruction of Pharaoh and Pharaoh's men.

Yorick and its treasure be damned—I had my own quarrel with Pharaoh. Ten days ago he had murdered a fellow-man; I had sworn to bring him to justice, and so I would. More—a hundred times more. My duty to Helena was over; the yoke that had cumbered my efforts was off my neck.

I began to think very hard.

Pharaoh would be close to the castle. Not, of course, at Plumage. But Pharaoh would be close to the castle because he was up against Time.

I had no doubt at all that he meant to attack.

The position was formidable, for Yorick was up in arms. But what were its walls and sentries, when more than a million sovereigns were lying within? And since finesse had failed, Pharaoh was going to do what Pharaoh had done before. He as going to commit burglary. Once within the castle, a gang of four such men could have its own way. What were footmen and grooms and porters? Only troops could cope with the violence which these felons were ready to offer to gain their ends. Three or four writhing servants, and the Countess must open her cellar and bid them take what they would. Who knew better than Pharaoh that ruthlessness pays?

I remembered that Helena told me that when she went to Salzburg she carried a thousand sovereigns; that these were contained in two boxes; that each of these weighed nine pounds. Allowing for the weight of the boxes, I reckoned that the Rolls could carry at least fifty thousand sovereigns in canvas bags. And fifty thousand sovereigns meant seventy thousand pounds.

The calculation bore fruit.

Before I had finished my sum, I knew where Pharaoh would be. And that was as close to the castle as he could bring the Rolls.

A moment's reflection assured me that Pharaoh would make no use of the entrance drive. That was too dangerous.

I was ready to wager a fortune that the Rolls was now standing in Starlight—the lovely coppice less than two miles from Yorick. And where the Rolls was, was Pharaoh; her way was his line of advance and his line of retreat. The thing stood out. In the woods between Starlight and Yorick—somewhere there Pharaoh would be.

I began to wonder how Pharaoh would enter the castle. If Rush could reach a postern. . . . But how could they cross the bridge?

Here, with a shock of dismay, I remembered that I was unarmed. For a moment my hopes seemed dust. Then I saw that this was a matter in which I must use my wits. My cousin would arm me, if I could show him good cause. This would not be difficult. I was so simple a fool that he would never doubt my good faith. I began to think how to deceive him.

"This home-coming stunt," I said. "Won't Pharaoh be there to receive us—at the mouth of the entrance drive?"

"As like as not," said my cousin. "The only thing is that unless he heard or saw Lady Helena leave the castle, he'll never imagine that either of you are outside. So he won't be ready. But we'll have to go by all out. All the same, I'm damned uneasy. I can sympathize with detectives who are answerable for the safety of royalty. And I know very well what they'd do. They'd take her straight to Salzburg and put a guard on her room." He gave his head to the air. "I'm tempted to go by Plumage, but, to tell you the truth, I'm afraid to get out of the car. If we meet the fellow on foot, we're damned well done. Will you go with ner in her car?"

"No," said I. "I won't. I'll follow with Barley behind."

"All right," said Geoffrey, "all right. But Barley's the better shot, so you'd better drive."

I thought before replying.

"Incidentally," I said, "I haven't a pistol to fire—or any sort of weapon, for the matter of that."

"You won't need one, if you drive."

"I'd rather have something," I said. "I've been caught bending once through being unarmed."

"Perhaps you're right," said Geoffrey. He put his hand to his side and unfastened a hunting knife. "Knives seem to be your portion, but except my pistol, I haven't anything else."

After Some 14 Miles We Stopped at a Wayside Inn.

The blade was sheated, and I slid the knife into my pocket without a word.

"And allow me to add," said my cousin, "that I am immensely relieved to see you showing some signs of taking thought for yourself. I take off my hat to valor, but to valor plus discretion I go on my knees."

And at that moment we heard the drone of a car.

Two minutes later Barley drew up beside us, in a smother of dust.

"O. K.?" said Geoffrey, shortly.

"Every time, sir," said Barley. "It couldn't have gone more easy if you'd been there. The old fathers, they wasn't half pleased. His lordship come to his senses as we was gettin' him out, but I don't think he cared what happened—his head was too bad. An' when he saw the monks an' the gateway, I think he thought he was dead. I gave them your note and I showed them the 'punctured wound.' I'd made it with my trousers' buckle, same as you said. That was good enough for them. Four of them carried him off, an' two of the others rushed off to heat the irons. I only 'ope they don't take his leg off."

My cousin strove to steady his voice.

"Hush," he said. "Her ladyship knows quite enough."

I turned to see Helena approaching.

"All's well," said Geoffrey. "Your brother is safely bestowed. I think we'd all be the better for breaking bread."

Helena nodded.

"I'll sit with Barley," she said. "I've got to try and show him the way to my car."

Ten minutes later we sighted a good-looking coupe, tucked under a rock that looked like a leaning pulpit, by the side of a fall.

As Barley slowed down—

"And now," said Helena.

"May I come with you?" said my cousin. "I'd like you to drive."

"Very well. But Barley must lead. I don't know the way."

This was not at all to my liking, but happily Geoffrey stepped in.

"Barley shall lead," he said, "till we've eaten and drunk. After that, I'd like to go first. Please do as I say."

Helena hesitated. Then—

"All right," she said.

After some 14 miles we stopped at a wayside inn. The fare was rough and all the appointments most rude; but I think we were all four thankful to break our fast. Though they did not know it, I was a good deal more thankful than anyone else; the others would find plenty at Yorick, but God only knew when and where I should eat again.

No more was said of the order the cars should take, and when our meal was over, the coupe was under way before I had taken my seat.

Quick as a flash—

"You'll have to drive, Barley," I said. "You haven't heard, but Dewdrop stuck me last night. I think he found a muscle or something. I'm stiff."

"Very good, sir," said Barley, and took the wheel.

A mile or two later—

"Where's your pistol?" I said. "I don't anticipate trouble, but now that you're driving, I'd better have it in case. I suppose you can guess who's got mine."

As Barley surrendered the weapon—

"Her ladyship did tell me something. Fancy Dewdrop stabbin' you."

All Around the House

Ink spots on the fingers may be instantly removed with a little ammonia. Rinse the hands after washing in clear water.

* * *

Icing for cake may be prevented from cracking by adding one teaspoon of cream to each unbeaten egg. Stir all together, then add sugar until the icing is as stiff as desired.

* * *

Set your alarm clock to notify you when baking period is completed. You may then continue your work in the other part of the house without worry.

If dirt becomes ground into a waxed floor moisten a cloth with turpentine and rub the turpentine well into the floor until the wax is removed, then wash the floor anew and polish it.

* * *

To remove egg stains from a linen tablecloth soak it in cold water before putting it into hot soapsuds.

A little vinegar poured into a saucepan in which onions have been fried will remove the odor of onions from the pan.

* * *

A worn whisk broom trimmed down to its stiffest part makes a very good scrubbing brush for the sink.

* * *

To remove stains from a vase or bottle, put in it two tablespoons of salt and four tablespoons of vinegar and shake well. Let stand for several hours, empty and rinse out in hot soap suds.

* * *

Baking powder biscuits, corn breads and muffins may be freshened by brushing them all over with cold water and heating in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for five or ten minutes just before serving.

Largest Push Cart Market

New York city has the largest pushcart market in the world. It consists of 12,000 peddlers who do a gross volume of business of more than $500,000 a week, selling a vast variety of articles that range from octopi to oil paintings.—Collier's Weekly.

TALLEST STRUCTURE

Until New York's Chrysler building came along in 1930, with its height of 1,046 feet, the Eiffel Tower in Paris, 984 feet, was the world's tallest structure. Later, of course the Empire State building topped both with 1,248 feet.

Best Treatment

Let a peeved man alone; usually he wants to be so let.

World Not a Spectator to Over-Sensitive One

A good deal of discomfort arises from over-sensitiveness about what people may say of you or your actions. Many unhappy persons seem to imagine that they are always in an amphitheater, with the assembled world as spectators; whereas all the while, they are playing to empty benches.—Sir A. Helps.

Make the "FIRST QUART" TEST Just drain and refill your crankcase with Quaker State. Note the mileage. Then see how far you go before you have to add a quart. See if it isn't farther than you have ever gone on a single quart of any other oil. That means real oil economy; but still more important, remember that the oil that stands up best between refills is giving your motor the safest lubrication. Motorists find that under similar driving conditions, they get many more miles from Quaker State. Quaker State Oil Refining Company, Oil City, Pennsylvania.

PENNY CARNIVAL
A BIG SUCCESS

Last Frday evening the Epworth Leaguers of the Methodist church were very gratified with the enthusiastic reception and support of the penny carnival which was one of their major social features of the year. The affair was held in the church banquet rooms and was an outstanding success. Jack Smith was the general chairman and was assisted by Cassius Insko, Paul Craft, Maxine Carl, Norma Wright, Dorothy Zowski, Norma Stahlheber, Ray Puterbaugh, Leola Maurer, Howard McCoy, Helen Smith and Mark Insko. It was estimated that there were two hundred people present. The young folks realized a goodly sum, which will go towards the church fund, and also towards carrying on the league work.
